MORE SUSPECTED BOOKIE PHONES JERKED TODAY

COUPLE CHARGED WITH HARBORING BOOKIE OFFICE

Council To Question Police Chief When He Returns From Rest

Moving in for the kill, county officials this morning (August 16) returned to Daly City and began jerking scores of phones from suspected bookie joints.

This was a follow up on last week's raids when some 30 local business establishments and private homes were investigated for extra phones. Today the officials came back to lift the telephones, and by so doing kill the alleged bookie joints of vital communication necessary for their business.

No Local Help

Taking part in the second phase of the raids were H. F. Schroeder, supervisor special agent for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., and A. L. Lamport, criminal investigator for the District Attorney's office.

Once again, no local officials or police assisted the county officials.

Phones were being lifted out of many stores, shops and business offices on Mission street and adjoining streets. Lamport did not say how many establishments would be affected, although it is expected the same places will be hit where last week officials found extra phone wires and numerous phones.

Couple Charged

The county operation followed Wednesday's booking of Nathan Martinelli, 45, and his wife Marian, 38, on charges of harboring bookies in their two story home at 27 Woodrow street.

The couple were indicted Tuesday afternoon by the county grand jury, following the declaration by Thomas B. Foster, jury spokesman, that Chief W. W. Sunderland had unwittingly tipped off the bookies in the raid on Martinelli's home July 24.

"The situation as regards the chief (Sunderland) just doesn't make sense," Foster declared.

Monday Arraignment

Martinelli, who said he knew Chief Sunderland and had recently completed a $700 sheetmetal work job on the chief's new home, was released with his wife on $2,000 bail.

The Martinellis will be arraigned in Superior Court before Judge Edmund Scott at 4 p. m. Monday. They are being represented by John J. Fahey, former justice of the peace here.

"They are making too much of bookmaking," Fahey said. "These people just own the house, and they rented a room. They didn't know to what purpose the room was used."

Chief Explains

Following the unsuccessful raid on the Martinelli home, Chief W. W. Sunderland told The Record that the escaped bookie had rented the room from the Martinellis two weeks before. He said as both Martinelli and his wife worked, and were gone from their home during the day, they were not aware of the bookie operation in their basement. Chief Sunderland said a man giving the name of Fred Peterson had rented the apartment.

Martinelli is owner and operator of the State Sheetmetal Works at 6048 Mission street. He has been a resident of Daly City for the past eight years.

Too Familiar

When Foster stalked out of the grand jury hearing Tuesday he said he had left because "I don't think I could be a fair juror, knowing the facts in the Daly City case."

"I'm too familiar with it. There was a tipoff up there and I understand it. While he (Sunderland) didn't intentionally tip them off, he telephoned them and said the representatives of the district attorney's office were there and wanted to see them."

CHARGED WITH HARBORING A BOOKIE in their home at 27 Woodrow street are Nathan Martinelli, 45, and his wife Marian, 38. The couple will be arraigned in Superior Court Monday, August 20. The Daly City sheetmetal contractor and his wife were indicted by the county grand jury Tuesday.

RED FEATHER DRIVE VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Volunteer workers are needed to assist in the Community Chest drive to be held here early in October, Councilman Fred Bertetta, chairman, said today.

Plans are already being formulated to assure the success of this year's Red Feather Campaign, Bertetta noted.

"We are sure everyone will wish to help, as money from this drive is used for the betterment of everyone in the community."

Those interested in assisting are asked to call Bertetta either at home, PLaza 5-4356; at city hall, PLaza 5-0850; or drop him a post card in care of City Hall 75 Wellington Avenue.

County Cuts Tax Rate Four Cents

Daly City residents probably will be paying four cents less in county taxes during 1951-52. The decrease from $1.92 to $1.88 per $100 valuation brings the county tax rate to its lowest point in five years.

The definite rate will be set by the board of supervisors next Tuesday, County Manager E. R. Stallings announced today.

Earlier, it was predicted the tax rate was to increase. However, on the basis of a revision by the State Board of Equalization, more than $2,000,000 was added to the county assessments from public utilities. Another $8,000,000 was added to the personal property valuations of the assets of various county firms and individuals.

The greatly increased tax base made the cut possible.

And while taxes will be lower, there will be more revenue, Stallings said.

CITY TAX RATE CUT SLIGHTLY

City Council Rejects $11,000 Injury Claim

A tax rate of $1.295 per $100 assessed valuation for 1951-52 was set by the Daly City council at their regular meeting Monday evening.

This represents a slight decrease in the tax rate, as last year's levy was $1.322. Increased population and assessed valuation made the decrease possible.

The tax rate is broken down as follows:

General government	$1.00
Recreation bond fund	15
Retirement fund	145
Total	$1.295

More Money

Another money matter was before the council Monday evening. This consisted of a claim of $11,000 brought against the city by Joseph Arroyos who asserted his 4-year-old son suffered a brain concussion when "thrown" from the slide at Lincoln Playground, May 15. In his claim Arroyos stated the slide was "dangerous and defective," and the city had failed to remedy the condition.

The city council rejected the claim, and turned the matter over to City Attorney Frank Blum.

Payments were authorized to Ralph Larsen, $19,957 for the Community Center Building; Brigato Paving Co., $4,617 for paving Edgewood Park; Sterling Building, $3,302 for work on Hillside No. 1, and $1,785 for work on Hillside No. 2.

Rezoning

September 11 was set for a hearing on the rezoning of lots in the Castle Tract and Abbey Homestead from R-1 to R-3. The request for the rezoning was made by Ricco and William Lagomarsino respectively.

The only other business before the council was to accept the resignation of Dave Newman from the water department and appoint James Baird in his place. Baird requested the job, and will be transferred from his present position as police officer. No one, as yet, has been named to replace the officer.

RUNAWAY CARS BRING CITATIONS

Two persons were given citations by Daly City police during the past week for incorrect hill parking.

Hugh Hensley, 611 Hillside boulevard parked his car in front of his house Saturday without turning the wheels to the curb. The result was that the car broke loose. It ran south on Hillside boulevard about 75 feet, then across the street and over a bank at Hillside and E. Cavour, landing on its right side in the flower garden belonging to Margaret Messina.

The other person issued a citation for incorrect parking was Donald Olson, 499 Vista Grande. Early Monday morning officer Van Otten noticed a sedan parked with its rear wheels on the sidewalk at the northeast corner of Vista Grande and Willis.

Investigation brought to light the name of the car's owner and the fact that the vehicle's position was due to incorrect parking.

HIGH ENROLLMENT FORCES SWING SHIFT CLASSES

Schools Open Tuesday, September 11

Double sessions will be the order of the day for at least a quarter of the 2,800 students who enter Jefferson Elementary schools this fall, H. Z. Weibel, superintendent, said today.

The Jefferson Elementary Schools and the Jefferson High School will begin classes Tuesday, September 11.

Our Lady of Perpetual Help School plans to hold classes Wednesday, September 5.

Enrollment in all the schools is expected to reach an all time high.

Tentative

Tentative plans for double sessions were released today. Children effected will be those attending:

1. Those in A-4th, A-5th and the sixth, seventh and eighth grades at Colma School.

2. All those attending Garden Village primary school.

3. Two intermediate classes at Jefferson Elementary School.

Weibel said these plans were only tentative, and he will meet with principals the latter part of the month to work out a more definite schedule.

Hopes High

"We hope to cut down as many double sessions classes as possible," Weibel said.

Some relief is expected when the new Westlake School opens in November. This will cut the double classes at least the Broadmoor and possibly the Colma School.

A lack of building materials has held up construction on the new Westlake School which originally was to have opened in time for the fall classes.

The necessity of "swing shift" classes was emphasized by the increased enrollment at the elementary schools. Last year's students numbered 2,130. This year the enrollment is expected to jump to 2,800.

No figures are available as yet on the enrollment at the High School, but this, too, is expected to be much larger than last year.

Our Lady of Perpetual Help School has for many years been forced to turn away students as it reached its capacity enrollment the year it opened.

All new students to the Jefferson Elementary School district are asked to register at the school nearest their home September 7. Registration for new students at Jefferson High School is set for September 4 and 5.

Police Make Drunk Driving Arrest

Released on $250 security bond following his arrest on a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor Sunday, Joseph Newland, 2855 Jackson street, San Francisco, is scheduled to appear in Daly City court this Friday.

Newland was observed by patrol officer Van Otten driving north of Junipero Serra blvd. in such an erratic manner that he was allegedly using three lanes of the highway. The local officer followed Newland from School street to the county line and there he stopped him. When he discovered Newland's assertedly intoxicated condition he took him in for booking at the Daly City station.

HEARST FUNERAL TO GO THROUGH HERE

Daly City residents Friday will have an opportunity to pay last respects to William Randolph Hearst.

Probable route of the funeral cortege of Hearst, on the way to Cypress Lawn Cemetery some time during the noon hour Friday, is as follows:

From Grace Episcopal Cathedral down California street to Park Presidio. Then down 19th avenue to Junipero Serra boulevard and up School street. This route was announced from the funeral home of N. Gray & Co. this morning.

Citizens' Poll Shall We Walk Or Wait?

In a recent Record-conducted opinion poll a number of persons were questioned about their reactions to Daly City's new signal network "on top of the hill."

A total of 15 people were polled, but only nine persons frequented that section of Daly City and or had an occasion to use the signals.

Most of these nine people were confused by the WAIT-WALK indicators. They didn't know that the WAIT signal is merely a caution to pedestrians standing on the curb not to proceed across the street.

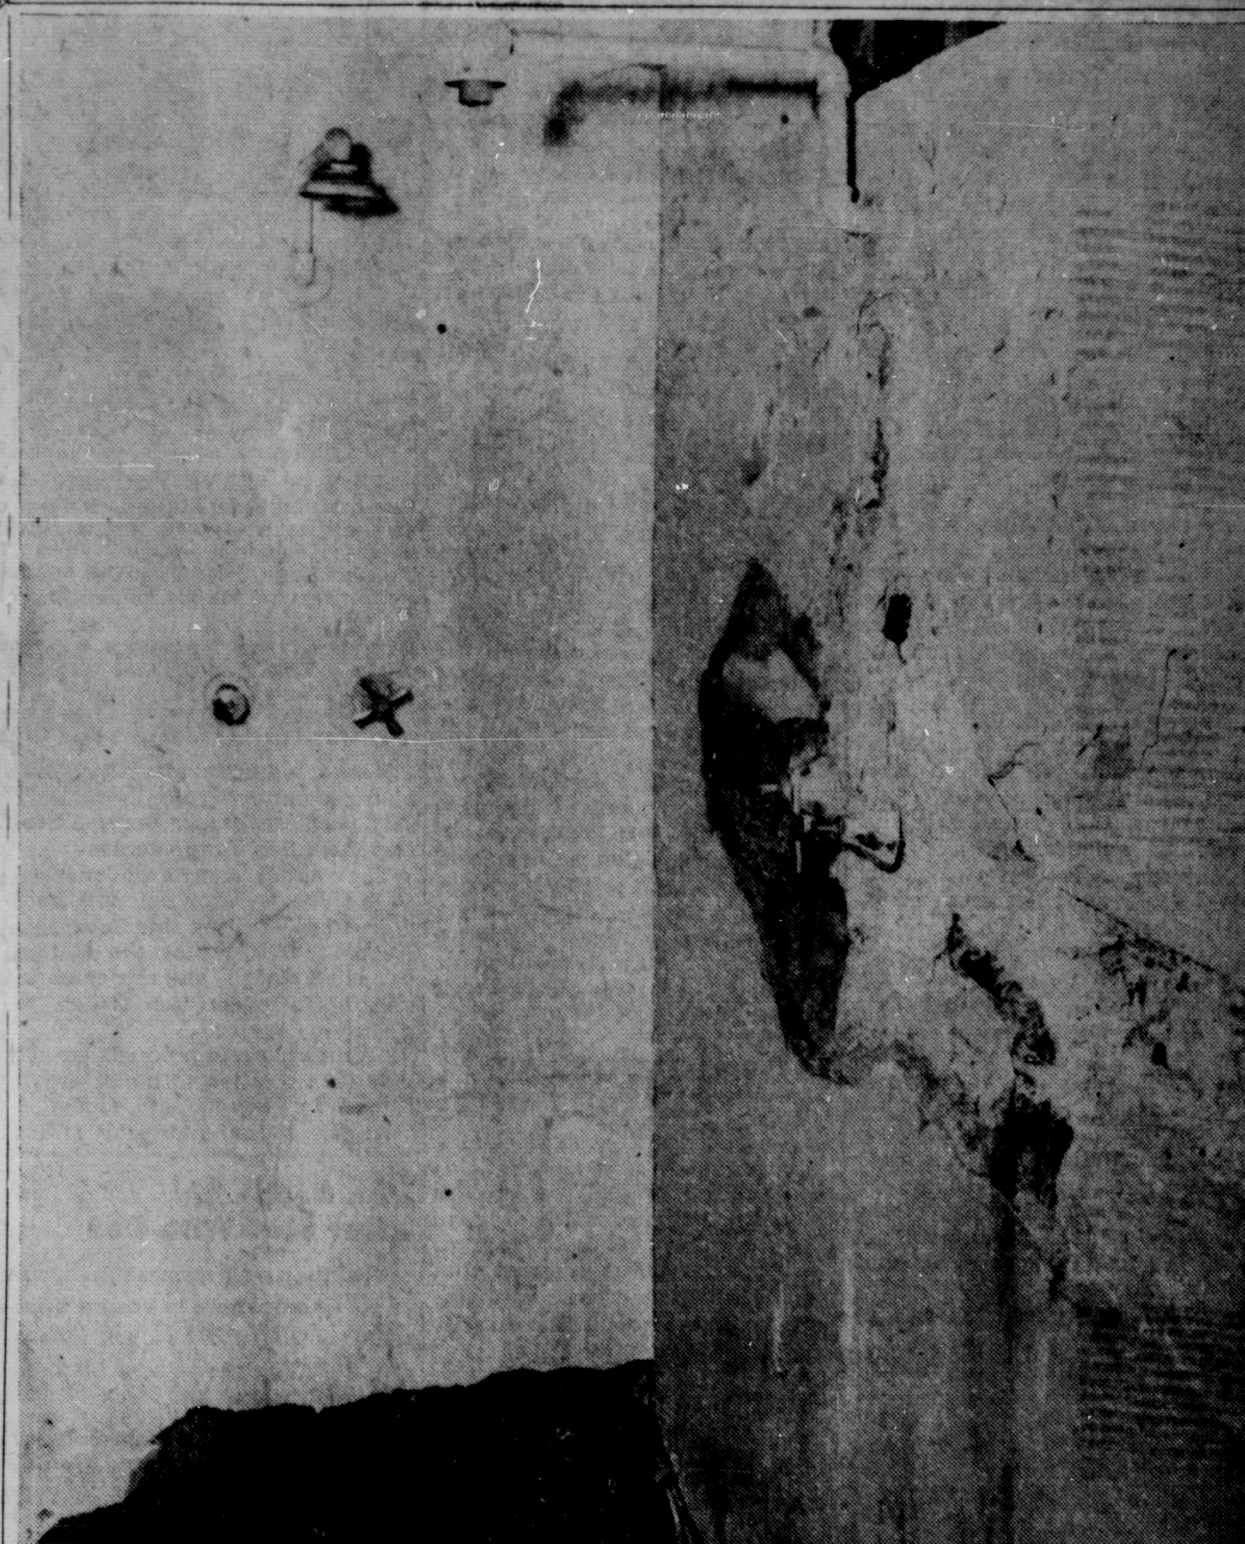

Pedestrians in the middle of the street when the WAIT flashes will have ample time to cross the remaining half of the street.

The push-button indicators, which are designed to provide the pedestrian with a few more seconds with which to make his crossing, were also not fully understood and infrequently used.

Mrs. Jeanette Laidlaw, 186 Los Olivos avenue, said, "I use the signals quite a bit and I think they will be all right once they are properly synchronized and people

WESTLAKE FENCE BIDS OPENED

One Bid Submitted On Existing Fence

It appeared today that the redwood board fence around the Westlake School would remain standing with the builder receiving payment for the job.

At a special meeting of the Jefferson Elementary School Board Friday evening Lyl Ingersoll, local contractor, submitted the lowest (and only) bid of $2,524.61.

The meeting was attended by Chairman Mike Callan and Secretary Andrew Van der Werff. Mrs. Helen Cheatham, board member who for so long has questioned the legality of the action, was not present.

Although the board accepted the bid of Ingersoll it was "subject to approval of the contract." The board did not say to whose approval, although this supposedly will come from the district attorney.

Ends

This seemed to be the end of a controversy which started three months ago when the board gave Ingersoll the job of putting up the fence without first calling for bids. Mrs. Cheatham asserted this was far from legal, and thereupon Chairman Callan, with the approval of the district attorney, called for bids on a job already completed.

Other business before the board Friday evening was:

More Bids

1. Awarding Kennedy Electric the contract for new electric work at Crocker School. He entered the low bid of $4,859.43.

2. Awarding Ray Luther Hayward, the contract for painting General Pershing School. He entered the low bid of $3,750.

3. Noted two new furnaces will be needed for Jefferson and Woodrow Wilson School.

4. Agreed to pay a $25 award to anyone supplying information as to who is breaking windows in the various schools. This has become a serious problem in the past few weeks, the board noted.

COMMENTS MADE ON NEW CITY NAME

Editor:

So Daly City is to be re-named! How nice! Daly City has been standing before, and was after the earthquake of 1906. But now, Vista Grande.

I understand one resident on Templeton Avenue started looking for his sewer line sometime in recent weeks. He is still assumed to be fog-bound.

Burning Ordinance Details Outlined

At the request of the Fire Department the City Council of Daly City recently passed an ordinance regulating the burning of waste material.

This ordinance, No. 324, allows burning on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays between the hours of 8 o'clock a. m. and 11 o'clock a. m. without a burning permit.

The purpose of the ordinance is to protect the public in general from smoke and soot due to unregulated burning. It also allows the housewife to hang out her clothes to dry with the assurance they will not be dirtied by a fire in a neighboring yard.

We are asking for your cooperation and consideration of your neighbor, that you burn your waste material on the days and times allowed by the ordinance.

Bicycle Thieves Continue Active

Continuing at rapid pace is the epidemic of bicycle stealing according to reports made to Daly City police during the past week.

Three bicycles were stolen from in front of the Jefferson Union high school while their owners were enjoying the swimming pool. Last Thursday night, John Amen, 205 Northwood drive in Brentwood reported that his son's bike was one of these stolen articles. It has a red and white frame and new fenders.

The maroon and white bicycle of Danny Curtin, 501 Evergreen avenue, and the blue and white bike of George Niblock, 844 87th avenue, Broadmoor, were the other bicycles stolen from the school premises. Both of these thefts took place Monday.

Saturday a small, two wheel bike was stolen from in front of 73 W. Cavour street. The bicycle was reported missing by Mrs. Clarence Finlof of the same address.

GAS FIRE GUTS B & G BODY SHOP

Almost a total loss today is the B & G Body and Paint Shop, 3348 San Jose avenue, which was gutted by a fire early Thursday morning.

The blaze broke out a few minutes after Ray Dunn, 251 Rhine, lit a small gas stove and left the garage for a cup of coffee. Firemen believe a leak in the gas line flooded the room with gas which in turn was ignited by the stove.

Jeff Martin, of the Daly City Cab Company, spotted flames pouring out of the front of the building at 7:20 a. m. He called firemen who fought the fire for almost an hour before bringing it under control.

Although no estimate of damage was available, Babe D'Antonio, proprietor of the establishment, said over $5,000 in materials had been destroyed by the blaze.

A 1950 convertible, in the garage for an auto upholstery job, was saved from total destruction by fast working firemen. They rolled it out into the street, and loss of the canvas top and smoke stains was the extent of the damage to the car.

D'Antonio, the father of thirteen children, said he had insurance, but he doubted if it was enough to cover the total loss.

Young Arsonist Operating Here

For the second time within nine days, Mrs. J. Jones of 8724 Mission street, had occasion to contact Daly City police for the exact same reason, attempted arson on her property.

In response to her call to the police last Thursday, Officer Wood was informed by the woman that she had interrupted a boy as he was getting ready to set fire to her automobile. The back seat was filled with loose paper and there was more paper in the front seat. The boy escaped without being identified.

Foster was referring to the July 24 raid when Sunderland, Lamport and Paul Jensen, from the sheriff's office, first went to the Martinelli home, left and later called the house. Foster said in making this Call Sunderland identified himself and said he and the two inspectors were coming over.

Fly's Coop

When the officers reached the Martinelli home they found bookie paraphernalia and evidence that the bookie had left only seconds after the phone call from the local police station.

At a special meeting of the Daly City council Monday, August 6, Chief Sunderland was absolved of all blame in the escape of the bookie. The council noted it was more a case of bungling than any actual tipoff.

However, in the light of the Martinelli indictment and the return of county officials here to jerk phones, the city council will make a second, more intensive study of bookie activities here within the next one or two weeks, Councilman Fred Bertetta said today.

Hearing Set

Councilman Bertetta said the second "hearing" would probably be held Monday, August 27. He said it would not be earlier as the council wished to further question Chief Sunderland.

The Chief, due back from a two weeks vacation August 21, has elected to take another week's rest. Councilman Bertetta indicated, therefore, the council can not hold the meeting until a later date.

Chief Sunderland was not available for comment today. Councilman Bertetta said the meeting would also be held to work out some means of closer cooperation between the city and county officials.

MEMBER OF SOUTH CITY DOPE RING GIVEN JAIL TERM

A former Golden Gloves lightweight champion, Marion J. Fleck, 22, was sentenced to a year in the county jail Tuesday for his activities in a South San Francisco marijuana ring.

Fleck's "steerer," Jesus C. Munoz, 24, was also given a six month jail sentence and he will be deported to Mexico at the conclusion of his jail term.

Put on five years probation by Superior Judge Aylett R. Cotton, Fleck was also given credit for the 70 days he served in jail prior to his trial.

Munoz was found guilty of selling marijuana and Fleck pleaded guilty to possession and sale of the drug.

The most important cog in the marijuana ring, according to the probation department, is Pete Perez, who is in San Quentin and was the principal source for the drug.

Fleck was first introduced to the drug by his boxing companions in 1949. There is no evidence which indicates that he ever sold the drug to high school students. He was arrested June 6 when he sold 17 marijuana cigarettes for $15 to two undercover agents who had been referred to Fleck by Munoz.

ARMY CONVOYS TO PASS THRU DALY CITY THIS FRIDAY

Four truck convoys of the United States army will pass through Daly City Friday, according to word received by Lt. Lacey of the Presidio who requested that local officers assist these caravans as they pass through this city.

The first convoy will go thru here from the Presidio around 9 a. m. The second from South San Francisco is scheduled to be in this part of the county around 10:30 a. m. The third from the Presidio around 1:30 p. m. and the fourth from South San Francisco, about 3:30 p. m.

Daly City Super Service Station To Hold Grand Re-Opening Saturday

Ready today to offer you and your car better service is the Daly City Richfield Super Service Station, 3356 San Jose Avenue.

The station, owned and managed by Joe Lewkowicz, will hold a grand re-opening this Saturday, August 18. Not that the station has been closed, but the celebration is to mark the switch to Richfield Service.

"With Richfield products we are now in a position to honor credit cards," Lewkowicz said today. At the special Saturday affair, all women visiting the station will be given a lovely corsage while the men will receive free cigars. And there will be plenty of candy for the kids.

On hand to help Lewkowicz will be his two sons, Joe Jr., and Charles. Also present will be Vern Smith, experienced mechanic for the station.

Everyone is invited to drop in Saturday and see what a change has been made in the station, Lewkowicz said.

Man Needs Aid After Bout With Cat

Variation on the nursery rhyme of pussy cat where have you been could be changed by Jack Swanson, 2169 Junipero Serra blvd. to pussy cat, what's the idea?

Swanson was scratched by a cat last Sunday night and received emergency treatment at the Aleman hospital. He reported the incident to Daly City police Monday.

POLICE FIND WOMAN WANTED IN EAST BAY

Picked up by Daly City police this week was Norma MacLaine, 48 Abbott street, who was wanted by Berkeley officers for passing bad checks. She was later turned over to the east bay authorities.

Her arrest was the result of efforts on the part of local officers in cooperating with both Berkeley and San Francisco police in searching for this wanted woman. They were first notified to be on the outlook for her last Friday.

KATHLEEN NORRIS Important Job

ONE REASON that women swarm to the offices of psychiatrists is that they don't like their jobs. Marriage is a job; a tremendous job. No chance that ever comes to her in her single life is half as important as is this new job, which a woman assumes of her own free will.

It means a change in everything, for her. It means she has agreed to live with this comparative stranger in circumstances entirely new. It means that she has to give up her way, at least half of the time, work for him and with him, worry over his worries, adapt her enjoyments to what amuses and interests him, and all the time be going through delicate and emotional crises, that, in her girlhood, she could not possibly have foreseen.

If Children Come

If children come there must be faced all the phases of life's most tremendous experience, with its mental, moral and physical significances. If the decision between this young couple is against assuming the responsibility of children, then serious injury is sometimes done to the woman's soul and mind. She may quite readily agree to the no-family plan, but she is being thwarted, and deep inside she knows it. That any man can influence her to keep her children from her arms is deeply hurtful to her dignity; children fulfill her reason for being, and she is cheated without them.

Yes, it's a business, marriage, and a girl ought to go into it determining to be better and wiser than she was before, willing to give up such pleasures and interests as cannot be shared, willing to sacrifice a good deal today for the sake of tomorrow.

Men starting new business ventures count on sacrifice and hard work in these years of getting established. Women marrying rarely do, nowadays. And yet the success of a marriage depends almost entirely upon the woman.

Unless a tremendous amount of spiritual goodwill, and the hourly daily use of common sense, reasonable humility, humor, energy, inspiration is put into this dangerous intimacy, any marriage will go on the rocks. Then there will be divorce, or the desperate appeal to some complete stranger to listen to the whole stupid story and try to straighten it out.

Trouble with Women

Over and over again, a successful psychiatrist told me, the trouble with a woman, when he digs deep down into her consciousness for it, is that she is not quite as fortunate as some other woman in her group.

If we American women have a typical fault, it seems to me, it is that. Each one of us is keeping her eye on a few contemporaries who seem to be just ahead of us all along the line. A woman named Vonnie Strong of Hartford wrote me a few weeks ago about the poison that is eating her life.

"Diane has always had everything I wanted," she writes. "I married first, I have three girls. Dear little girls, but with straight hair, and one wears glasses. Di married the man of whom I had hopelessly dreamed, and of course she had boy, girl, boy, all three beauties. We go up to a river cabin for vacations; it's lovely, we have fishing, boating, picnics. Di has always had a cabin near ours. This year she and Dan are going abroad. I'm nice looking; my clothes are usually given me by Tom's mother, or friends. Di's beautiful, and she buys all the clothes she wants. She's nice, too; we are friends. She's not spoiled. But now, just this week, Dan's had a promotion, more money, and a junior partnership. 'Now why is that?' demands Vonnie. 'I'd be happy, if it weren't for Di. I wish she'd just have a good dose of trouble, I really do. I want to pity her. I want her out of my life. I hear something new about her every day and I just have to take it. This has been going on for ten years, since we were in high school; I don't want to go on this way the rest of my life. What shall I do?'"

No European woman could have written this letter. They take marriage seriously and work shoulder to shoulder with their men; each woman achieving whatever she can with her own particular resources and materials.

The other day I heard a certain famous golfer quoted. His name is Hogan.

When asked what he thought was the reason for his success Mr. Hogan said that it might be because he never noticed what his opponents and rivals were doing. The only thing was his own play.

ple get accustomed to them."

Mrs. Cora E. Cord, 471 Winchester street, said, "I use the pedestrian indicators quite a bit, but they don't seem to be working right. It will say WALK and then when you're in the middle of the street it will change to WAIT."

"Yes, I think the signal system was needed, but there seems to be unnecessary measures as the new pedestrian crossing from the Bank of America to Wellington street."

Mrs. J. W. Halloran, 239 Wellington, said, "I think the system is disgusting. It's very confusing for pedestrians crossing Mission street toward Hillcrest boulevard. They should allow more time for pedestrians to cross the intersection before cars are allowed to turn left off Mission street on to Hillcrest."

Mrs. Owen, 35 Mission Circle, said, "I use the new signals quite often. I've missed buses because of the long signals. I believe the signals are set too long on the WAIT indication; it's very annoying to me."

Mrs. G. B. MacGregor, 124 Miriam street, said, "I think the new system is very good. It's very much better with the new hand signals; I'm very partial to the new network."

Jerry Echols, 10 Bepler, said, "They still are confusing; they seem to be red and green at the same time. The lights may be working alright, but I still think they're confusing."

Mr. Leonard C. Anderson, 562 San Diego avenue, said, "I use the signals every day as a pedestrian and as a driver. As a pedestrian I don't care for them. From a driver's standpoint I like the system, but I believe that the three lanes on South-bound San Jose should be cut down to two lanes at Alemany so there won't be a bottleneck at the top of the hill."

Mrs. W. C. Fasshauer, 401 Vista Grande avenue, said, "I don't use those signals too often. The first time I tried the signal I thought it would never change. It said WALK and then WAIT, but then someone told me to push the button. I have no objection to the new signals; I believe when we get used to them everything will be all right."

Mrs. Michael De Bernardi, 22 Bepler street, said, "I guess the signals are all right, but I didn't know I was supposed to push the button. I'm used to hearing the signals change. I like the system, but I don't like the new pedestrian crossing from the Bank of America to Wellington avenue."

A few days earlier, the arsonist who might have been the same boy, roughly described as a blond in his early teens, had been more successful. He had managed to set fire to the front seat of the car as it was lodged in the garage at the rear of the Jones home. At that point Mrs. Jones had also interrupted him and the fire was extinguished in time so that only the front seat and a door mat were damaged.

Bonnie Bowers Bitten By Bowser

Dogs in Daly City continue to be in the police limelight.

By nipping Bonnie Bowers, aged 10, of 100 Bel Mar avenue, on the right ankle last Friday an unidentified stray pooch made his existence known to local police. The girl was skating along the sidewalk on Lynwood drive when the incident occurred. She was rushed to the Junipero Serra hospital for treatment by Officer Wood. The whereabouts of the dog is unknown.

Dogs at the Dog and Cat hospital on Junipero Serra boulevard were reported to local police last Friday as making too much noise. Their accuser was Mrs. Nancy B. Sudd, 419 Niantic avenue. Dr. McIntyre of the hospital stated he would cooperate in every way to keep his patients quiet. Their hours for outside activity are only from 8 to 11 a. m.

Local Property Is Damaged By Vandals

Pigeons nesting in her building were just about the last straw to Miss Collopy, 1401 Floribunda, Burlingame, who reported to Daly City police that considerable damage had been committed on her property at Market and Mission streets.

Included among the other damage suffered to this property were broken windows, a broken drain pipe, boards pried off the roof of the garage, plants and trees damaged, electric wires taken from the attic, fuses taken from the switch box, and cans and crank case oil dumped on the property.

Dog Starves While Owners Are On Vacation

Deserted while his owners are alleged to be on their vacation is the dog belonging at 312 Peoria street, whose pitiful plight was called to the attention of Daly City police Tuesday.

Raymond Lee, 414 Crocker ave., reported to the local officers that this dog had been barking all night long for some time. When police investigated they were told by Mrs. Passha, 320 Peoria street, that she had fed the animal recently and that he seemed almost starved to death.

The local poundman is taking charge of the neglected dog.

ONE OF THE MOST BEAUTIFUL BEACHES in Northern California now awaits development by either Daly City or the county. This is Thornton Beach, just west of Skyline Boulevard near Westlake. The city is now trying to decide whether it wishes to take over the beach from the county. (Photo by Pat Corner)

It's The County's Job To Develop Thornton Beach

One more reason why Daly City needs a good man representing this area in Redwood City was apparent this week in the problem of Thornton Beach.

As noted in The Record, Thornton Beach is that area just to the west of Skyline Boulevard. Although within the limits of Daly City, the 26 acres are now under the control of the county.

Sometime last year it was proposed that Daly City acquire the beachlands. This would give us a beautiful new park on the ocean, and would provide some of the finest recreation area in the north end of the county.

However, some city officials wisely pointed out that acquisition of the beach would mean additional expense in the recreation budget. They agreed any expense was worth while which provided better recreation, but only when necessary.

These same officials observed that it would be wiser if the county kept the beach and improved it for not only the use of Daly City, but for all north county residents.

They reasoned that the county, always quick to collect taxes in this area, seemed somewhat reluctant to spend any of these dollars in the north end. They concluded the county would do well to improve the beach instead of leaving the job up to Daly City.

The Record goes along with this view. We don't believe the city should take over an additional expense when this job would be better done by the county.

Furthermore, we are of the opinion that the board of supervisors could afford to study a little more carefully the needs of the north county residents not only for parks, but for other important improvements.

All of which leads us to the election coming up this coming year. At that time we certainly hope north county residents will elect a supervisor who will represent this district, and who will see that such items as Thornton Beach come to the attention of the county officials.

Marchbanks Park Building Is A Filthy Mess

It's a filthy mess! That's about the only way we can describe the present conditions of the Marchbanks Park building. Pictures in this week's issue of The Record, and last week's also, should prove this to any citizen.

When contacted this week, city officials said they would do something about correcting the state of the lavatories and the building in general. It was noted some study had already been made.

However, when asked when this work would be done The Record received only vague answers.

Here's another case where the city seems to think the best thing to do is to sit and wait. Meanwhile, each day hundreds of children are exposed to a condition that would make the folk of Tobacco Road indignant. Not only is the building in a state of utter disrepair, but it is a distinct menace to the health of every boy and girl in the community.

It is also a "wonderful" advertisement to out-of-town visitors. Each Sunday various baseball teams from the Bay Area use the building. They leave with the impression that Daly City can afford to spend thousands of dollars on its parks, but not a few hundred dollars to clean up one of its most used structures.

Were this a private building the city inspectors would have called for it to be torn down or cleaned up years ago. However, it seems the city property is of no account, even though it is used daily by hundreds of children.

Let's clean up that mess today, not two years from now when the building won't be fit for anything but termite food.

Was Daly City A Bookmaking Headquarters?

Something was distinctly wrong with law enforcement in Daly City last week.

This was apparent to anyone who took note of county officials moving into town and tearing out telephone wires and potential bookie phones.

The move was started, not here at home, but in the office of the district attorney in Redwood City. Some screamed "Politics," although no one seemed quite certain what this had to do with the fact that enough proof had been turned up to show Daly City was far from the "clean town" it had supposed itself to be.

Why had it been necessary for officials from the district attorney's office and the sheriff's office to put the "heat" on local bookies? Why couldn't this job have been done by local officials? Why had none of these places ever been investigated by local officials?

It was apparent that someone knew the correct answer to these questions, only if that "someone" was a bookie.

The trouble was, too many people didn't really care. They observed we always have had bookies, and as long as people like to gamble the bookies live on.

However, they lost sight of one thing...that is, the number of alleged bookmaking establishments in a town of 15,000 population. Although no official figures were available, the finger of suspicion pointed to at least 30 places where a bet could be placed.

This could mean one of two things: 1. Local residents liked to play the horses to a degree where they could support a larger number of bookies per population than San Francisco, or 2. Bookies were using Daly City as a "headquarters" for the whole Bay Area.

Regardless of what conclusion was reached, or whether residents were for or against bookmaking, it was apparent to anyone that the whole matter had gotten completely out of control.

This week city officials promised to really clean up the town, and the district attorney noted he would be around to assist.

The rest seemed pretty much up to the citizens. As for bookies, most of them had taken the hint. They were "on vacation" for the rest of the month.

New Signals Prove A Scientific Headache

An interesting study in sheer frustration can be made by anyone who spends a few minutes on "top of the hill" these days.

We speak of the pedestrians and drivers who have attempted to fathom the meaning of the new signals.

Pedestrians are amazed by the variety of signals, none of which seem to serve any purpose except to endanger their state of mental health. Some laugh the whole thing off, others swear, and most pay no attention at all to the maze of amber, green and red lights.

More frustrating than the signals themselves, however, is the time element. The other day we waited three minutes for a signal to change. Now three minutes isn't long in the affairs of man, but it can be mighty irritating when a woman is sticking an umbrella in your back and a child is pulling desperately at your pant legs.

We think a minute should be quite long enough for any pedestrian or motorist to wait. We find this to be true even in the multiple phase lights in San Francisco, where the longest time interval between signals is two minutes.

State engineers seem quite happy with their brain child. They state it is scientifically correct. We say the lights may be a mute tribute to science, but they're a resounding headache to any resident.

Once more, we think the local officials should take time to add a little humanity to science. We believe something should be done to speed up the signals, and not next month or next year, but this week.

Residents of the same opinion are asked to drop a post card to The Record, 3317 San Jose avenue.

THE SPHINX

AFFAIRS OF STATE

by Henry C. MacArthur

August 13, (CNS) — Although the subject of taxation is highly distasteful to the great majority of people, it is a subject nevertheless which is meriting more and more attention as the costs of government increase and the taxpayers' pocketbook flattens.

The question of equity in taxation long has been unanswered, for according to the results of Board of Equalization surveys, there is little equity insofar as assessments are concerned, with the various counties assessed at different ratios, and public utility property at an even higher ratio.

The board investigations, however, and the recent squabble over the ratios, brought out another case in which inequities are charged by a board member.

George R. Reilly, San Francisco, pointed out that in his belief, California homeowners are paying direct property taxes on skyscrapers owned by insurance companies which do business in this state.

Insurance
Under the State Law, Reilly says, 75 insurance companies are offsetting property taxes totaling $1,311,425 against their insurance tax, which is computed by the insurance commissioner on gross returns, and approved by the board.

Title Companies
Title insurance companies, he says, are the big gainers in the offset provisions of the law. Reilly said that of 17 operating title concerns in the state, 13, or 76 per cent, received offsets that totaled $170,258, or almost half the amount they were billed in insurance premium taxes. And one title company paid no premium tax at all.

The offsets, of course, apply only to property owned and occupied by insurance concerns as a home office. They do not apply to other property the insurance company may own and operate for a profit.

Reilly sets the cost to the common taxpayer at two and a half million dollars this year.

"It makes little sense," the board member says, "to allow this kind of tax concession to stable, low-risk enterprises such as insurance firms and deny it to actual risk-capital business."

The board member will recommend that the senate interim committee on state and local taxation, headed by senator Ben Hulse, of Imperial County, go into the subject further and make recommendations.

A Highway Death Every Two Hours
Sacramento — One person was killed every two hours and 52 minutes in a traffic accident in California last year and one was injured every five minutes and 31 seconds, the California Highway Patrol announced today.

The averages are based on the 3,054 persons killed and the 95,096 injured in traffic accidents in 1950.

Only constant caution and rigid adherence on the part of every motorist to all traffic laws and rules of the road will reduce the state's mounting traffic, the Patrol declared.

"That conclusion is inescapable," the Patrol said. "Each driver is responsible for his own safety. He must have his car under complete control at all times and ever be on the alert for any emergency. Carelessness or inattention for even a fraction of a second may lead him to disaster."

Hard Job
We grant it's pretty hard to keep an even judgment of policemen when one checks you for over parking or doing 60 m.p.h. in a 35 m.p.h. zone. No one likes to admit he is in the wrong, especially when another citizen is around to bring that to his attention.

On the other hand don't forget that such simple things as a routine traffic check have held deaths on Daly City streets down to a minimum for over 20 years.

Cops can also be as helpful as irritating. In one week they do such simple things as assisting a resident to get into his locked home; help junior to find his way home; be on hand with an ambulance when a member of the family is ill; check phony salesmen from invading the community; find lost cars and a host of other trivial matters which mean a lot to the individuals involved.

Public Aids
After all, policemen are public servants in every meaning of the word. And in this town, at least, most of them remember that even to the point of holding their tempers when cursed roundly by everyone who just grew up "hating cops."

A policeman's life is not a happy one, but we are of the opinion that more residents should appreciate the service they are rendering the community.

Smith Replies Daly City's Former Mayor Points Out Certain Differences Of Opinion

August 15, 1951

Editor,
Daly City Record
Daly City, California
Dear Sir:

Thank you for honoring me with an editorial answer to my recent letter. Thanks also for "taking a crack at me," as by so doing you have pointed out the differences in our opinions as to the reason for the deplorable lack of attendance at our School Board and City Council meetings as well as on other matters.

I am indeed disappointed to realize that I failed to put my idea over clearly. What I intended to convey was that while it is apparently a somewhat forgotten procedure I am still for my old plan at both the City Council and Board of Supervisors meetings. We encouraged the people to get together in their various districts, analyze their problems, lay out their plans, come to us with them, participate in the meetings, and be helpful by keeping us in closer touch. In addition we often changed the regular order of business to give those in the audience preference so they could be heard without undue waiting. I still think it is a good and democratic way of conducting such meetings.

In further reference to your editorial, you seem to have gained the impression that I am doubting the ability of our public officials. Far be it from me to do that. As a matter of fact, I envy their being so able as to "go it alone" — not needing the help of the citizens they serve. We old-timers used to find it tough enough to do the job with all the help we could get.

I note other evidence of people being smarter in these days. Years ago if bookmakers came to town we knew of their presence very promptly and they were prevented from operating. Now they have become so smart that they can apparently operate year in and year out and keep our official family from learning of their presence.

Let's you have left an erroneous impression with some of our people.

Very Truly Yours
H. H. SMITH

Editor's Note: Last week The Record noted the Jefferson High School District tax rate for 1952-53 will "go up from 50c to 75c." This was an error. Actually the tax rate will not go up, but taxpayers will pay an additional sum, (still to be determined, but less than noted) to retire bonds which will be sold to raise money for a new high school and additional property. The Record thanks Peter Markovich, board chairman, for bringing this to our attention.)

Daly City Record

Daly City, Calif.
Dear Sirs:

In reading your article regarding a 10c tax reduction for the Jefferson Union High School District I find in your last paragraph ing pure and noble after saying no to some beautiful girl so that his strength might be as that of ten, or of Miss Bonheur's horses tossing their heads and flaunting their manes in the breeze. Some of the larger rooms had both. I must investigate some time and see if they have survived the progress of modern education.

The other weekend in the interest of readers of this deathless prose and because a free ride in a bohemian company was available I made the journey down to Laguna Beach to view the town's 16th annual festival of arts.

It was well worth the trip. There were 110 booths displaying the creations of the talented people who make Laguna Beach their home.

All Types
The exhibits included all types of painting and sculpture, ceramics, metal work, weaving and other crafts. In addition to local work there was a section containing 60 paintings submitted by nationally famous artists from other parts of the country in competition for $3,000 of prize money.

I could list here the names of the prize-winners except that it was a hot day and I left my jacket in the car and strolled around in a T-shirt, without pockets and hence without note-taking apparatus. The only name I remember is Something Grant Sherry, former husband of Bette Davis, who won second prize of $750. A passing artist told me Mr. Sherry is currently in Paris spending the proceeds, a bit of information which aroused my envy.

Perhaps the most interesting thing that happened on this voyage of artistic investigation was a chance encounter with a chap I didn't recognize. He is a retired general of the U. S. Army, named Pelham Glassford, graduate of West Point a class after MacArthur.

Two years ago I had visited Laguna Beach and while going thru the local art museum had chatted with General Glassford, mostly about a one-man show of a painter friend named Emil White which was scheduled there.

The museum is on the right as you enter town from the north, about a mile away from Laguna Canyon, an open air bowl where the art festival is held. My companions were anxious to drive right to the open air show, but I persuaded them to stop at the museum, telling them I knew the General and that they would enjoy meeting him because in addition to being a competent artist he is a stimulating conversationalist.

So we stopped and, looked around but didn't see the General. After two years and just a brief encounter I wasn't too sure what he looked like anyway.

The museum was conducting a vote on the most popular painting. Mine went to a pastel portrait by an artist named Russell Iredell. This may seem an unimportant point but it works into the story later.

There were benches and easels, paper and colored chalks and even smocks to protect the clothes if one were modestly dressed, which few visitors were since it was a bright sunny afternoon.

A Hunting we will go!
On the march last week-end were the sportsmen and women of California, in a mass movement that probably has been unparalleled since the hon.stead rushes of an earlier day.

Long before the opening day of deer season, the adjacent camp grounds began filling up, even piling over into the cabin area. All sizes and types of cars and trucks, even a few snooty Cadillacs could be observed, disgorging camping equipment, frisky dogs, energetic children, patient wives and optimistic husbands. By nightfall, hardly a bush could not boast hats or jackets, and even the most careful venturer down family pathways more often than not, tumbled into a hastily improvised outdoor, or inadvertently became the "man who came to dinner"—invited.

Young Fry
Some of the younger sportsmen donned casuals and joining the dancing at the pavilion, with sleep the least of their worries. The more serious and experienced hunters posed the flaps of their tents, and peacefully, (if noisily) snored through the noise and confusion of adjacent campers, some of whom were busily discussing the merits of their particular type of gun, or went on just plain social repartee, punctuated by a friendly bottle of old beer. For all of four hours his heterogeneous mass of humanity settled down with the amiability of people who live and let live, and no doubt slept the sleep of the just, with visions of huge forked horn bucks falling at their mental shot.

Dawn broke on this once happy peaceful little place with the ringing of alarm clocks, which set motion a symphony of barking all pitches, emanating from every type of dog imaginable. Spaniels, Retrievers, Boxers, Airedales, terriers and mongrels, (the last at the least) all anxious to e off, and I might say no more so than those of us who wished them a speedy departure, so we could return to our interrupted slumbers.

Story Told
At breakfast, a guest I had invited for the week-end amusingly recounted the incidence of the parade of scarlet clad hunters, who silently paraded in a circuitous route around her cot, till she felt an uncontrollable desire to sit up and blow a horn (if she had one). It seems I had placed her cot, all unaware, in a spot, although alongside of my cabin, nevertheless directly blocking a shortcut the hunters use in reaching a side-road. The clique reversed!

The first to return to camp with their deer, caused much excitement and speculation. Many, of course were disappointed, and some evidence of unsportsmanlike conduct exposed which resulted in the confiscation by the game warden of several untagged deer, and an unscrupulous character unworthy of the name of sportsman fined for carrying off another man's shot, proved of course beyond any question of a doubt. It is rumored that this sort of offense is dealt with heavily, and it is hoped the further charges he will face in court will remind him for some time to come that sportsmen will tolerate no breach of the code of honor of the field and stream, nor will the game warden!

One Look
One look at the fine sensitive head of a deer, beautiful even in death, only succeeds in making me a greater conservationist than ever. Undenably I have drooled over succulent deer steak whenever by good grace I have been confronted with one, but I leave the skill of the kill, (if you would have it that way) to the real sportsmen who themselves regulate and recommend to the Fish and Game Dept. such measures and restrictions as are necessary to ensure an abundant and healthy herd of deer in California. It is at the insistence of the organization and creditable hunters in this state that those who acquire fish or game illegally be prosecuted to the full letter of the law.

So far, I am glad to say no casualties or accidents have occurred, but a calm has been dissipated which may not return for some days—alas.

Harry Aronson Named To Fill Recreation Post Vacated By Johnson

Daly City this week welcomed a new coordinator of recreation. He is Harry Aronson, 35, who will also teach at the Colma Elementary school.

He replaces Erle Johnson who resigned his position to become director of recreation for Calaveras county.

Mr. Aronson is a graduate of Commerce High school in San Francisco where he was captain of the football, basketball, and track teams in 1934. He was also named on All-City football and basketball teams in 1933-34.

Graduated from St. Mary's college in 1938 with a B. A. degree, Mr. Aronson won three letters in football. He was awarded the outstanding player's trophy in the Fordham-St. Mary's game in 1938 and also participated in the 1939 Cotton Bowl classic when St. Mary's defeated Texas Tech.

He obtained his General Secondary teaching degrees at U.S.C. in 1940 and since then has continued graduate studies at C.O.P. and Sacramento State college.

CARS DAMAGED IN MINOR ACCIDENTS

One of a series of minor automobile accidents this week involving property damage only reported to Daly City police was that which concerned cars belonging to Dan Wharton, 6848 Mission street, and Carl Arnold, of Millbrae. The accident occurred last Friday at the intersection of Citrus and Mission streets.

Saturday cars owned by Anton Schroer, 926 Minnesota street, San Francisco, and William Hales, 170 School street, were involved in an accident at No. 1 Highway and Sheffield drive.

Knowles avenue was the scene of an automobile accident Saturday with damage sustained by cars belonging to George Cripps, 36 Woodrow street, and A. Herschel, 152 Los Olivos.

In the vicinity of the signals at San Jose avenue, two cars were involved in a small accident, also on Saturday. The cars were owned by F. P. Johnson, 156 School street, and J. E. Reygoez, 109 Westlake avenue.

HEADLIGHT GLARE CAUSES ACCIDENT

Her vision blurred by the headlights of an oncoming car, Dorothy Kennedy, 59 Toledo Way, San Francisco, was involved in an accident on the railroad tracks near Niantic and San Mateo avenue, Monday. Results of the accident were limited to damages to the Kennedy car which had to be removed by a tow car.

Mr. Kennedy, who had been driving south on St. Charles, was continuing east across the railroad tracks into San Mateo avenue when the accident happened. She failed to negotiate a turn because of another car's glaring headlights, and ran off the road into a drainage ditch on the south side of the street along the side of the railroad tracks.

DEAR PARENTS

By Jane Keith

My niece is getting married this Sunday—and my thoughts are too full of her to write about anything else. "So young!" I say to myself. "Only seventeen—and her husband to be only twenty! What will happen to them? How, with their pitifully small store of experience and knowledge of the world, will they make out spiritually and financially?" But this is idle thinking, the thoughts colored too strongly—I know—by my own personal experiences.

They, of course, KNOW exactly what will happen to them. The girl wants to work and the boy to finish schooling interrupted by a post-World War II enlistment and L'Affaire Korea—a la draft! They are very much in love and the world is not only their oyster, but one containing that pearl, FAITH!

Watching them makes me feel like "The Man with the Hoe"—"bowed with the weight of centuries—" Their certainty about the future astounds and appalls me who feels nothing in life to be CERTAIN, nothing a sure thing! I touch in my mind again the new winter coat, the one which vanished before the need of supplies for a new baby, doctor bills and incidentals; see the car that is still waiting to be exchanged for a current model. See what I mean about strong coloring in

Collie Dog Bites Man On Right Arm

The black and white collie dog disappeared immediately after biting Raymond Beach, 137 Lake Vista Drive, on the right arm as he was getting out of his car in front of his home, Tuesday.

Beach was taken to the Junipero Serra hospital for treatment and back home again in a Daly City police car. He does not know who is the owner of his assailant.

When the aunt was contacted was learned that the boy had visited her the Tuesday before, but that since that time he had parted a bus presumably to return to his home. However, as he wasn't at his home Thursday, his mother was worried and contacted police. The boy has blue eyes and brown hair.

MAN SUFFERS BRUISES IN OVERTURNED CAR

Multiple contusions and lacerations were suffered by Carl Jelf, 71 Laura street, San Francisco, when his car overturned on the coast road near the Silver Saddle early Thursday morning. He was taken to the Junipero Serra hospital for treatment.

As reported to Daly City police, Jelf swerved to the right to avoid an oncoming car riding the center line, and while doing this, he hit the bank alongside the road, careening into its center and turning over.

Besides his injuries and the damage to his car which had to be towed away, Jelf had further reason to regret the accident. He was given citations by the local officers for driving without a license and for not displaying his car registration card.

How to make good telephone service even better...

Long Distance service is faster when you call by number

You'll find your Long Distance Operator can put your call through much quicker if you give her the out-of-town number you want...rather than just the name and address. That way, you see, you won't have to wait for her to get the number from "Information" in the town you're calling. So why not start a Long Distance list...by jotting down the number when the operator reports it to you.

look 'em up - jot 'em down - then call

You know, it's awfully easy to get telephone numbers "turned around" in your head. So to get the right number, it's a good idea to look it up in the telephone book...jot it down on a slip of paper...then make your call.

Labor Day Fete Hundreds Of Bay Area Dancers Expected To Attend Local Festival

Daly City's plans for a gala Labor Day will center around a folk dancing festival this year.

The Daly City Recreation Department announces the festival is to be held at Jefferson Union High School from 1:30 to 5:30 p. m. September 3. It will continue in the evening from 7:30 p. m. to 10:30 p. m.

Letters have been sent to more than 100 folk dance clubs belonging to the federation in the Bay Area. The response has been such to indicate an unprecedented number of dancers plan to attend.

The committee on arrangements has been doing a tremendous job with the multitude of details an undertaking like this entails.

Ray Pabst, general chairman, states that the evening Square Dance Jamboree will really be sensational as most of the "Big Name" callers in Northern California will be on hand for a "tip" of Squares. So come and hear your favorite caller.

Spectators may view the performance from the balcony.

Dancing will range from the most elementary to the more advanced so that dancers at all levels will have an opportunity to enjoy themselves.

Some of the exhibitions have been brought from Europe and have never been viewed before here, and we are assured they will be both authentic and of unsurpassed beauty.

City Softball Daly City Recreation Baseball League Mercury Plumbers Take Lead In

By Harry Aronson

Playing in sub-zero weather on Thursday, August 2, Mercury Plumbers chalked up their second win of the season by eking past the Twenty-One Club by a score of 13 to 14.

The plumbers blasted the ball all over the park for the first four innings and were enjoying a comfortable 14 to 4 lead going into the fifth frame, then the boys from Club 21 decided to make a game out of it and had the plumbers "sweating" at the end of the contest.

Mercury scored one in the fifth, added three more in the sixth and went scoreless in the seventh, while Club 21 crossed the plate three times in the fourth, once in the fifth, six men tallied in their "big" sixth inning and three more runs in the seventh ended their threat.

The sluggers for Mercury were Mike Orlich with two for two, Lue Berjack socked a homer in the fourth, and T. Taylor collected 3 singles. Left fielder Chelone of Club 21 was the only batter to get more than one hit. He clouted two off the pitching of George Morrison, Mercury's slender ace.

Aug. 7, Mercury 16 - Eagles 2

Diamond No. 1 was the scene of another victory for the hustling Plumbers. Their victims, the Eagles, were practically handcuffed at the plate by the four hit pitching of Mike Orlich and the fine support given him by his team. Mercury amassed a total of 29 hits, with Herb Frost leading the parade of sluggers with 3 for 4 including a home run in the initial frame. Don Wong had 3 for 5, Lue Ferjack 3 for 5 and Tom Tromborg 3 for 4. The win enables the Plumbers to hold the lead in the league standings with 3 wins and no losses.

The Eagles were able to chalk up two runs on two hits in the third inning and that ended their scoring. The loss gives them a record of one win and two defeats.

STATE OFFICERS TO ATTEND COLMA MEET

Featured by the visit of the state Grand Arch Dwyer and her staff, members of Cypress Circle No. 14, U.A.O.D. will convene for a meeting Wednesday at the Colma Community Center hall on Dunks street.

Because of this visit of Mrs. Sarah Brundage of Oakland and her associates, there will be no playing of whist as was originally scheduled to follow the regular business session.

Girl's Sweater Is Stolen From School

Of rose wool and size 12 is the girl's sweater which was reported stolen to Daly City police Monday by Mrs. Brown, 755 Stewart avenue, Broadmoor.

The Colma woman stated that the garment which belonged to her daughter, was taken from a locker at the Jefferson Union high school while the girl was in swimming. The coat style sweater is designed with white figures down the front and has pink and gold buttons.

Local Nine Win City Title

Vince & Fred's closed out their season with a resounding 6-0 victory over the San Francisco Athletic club at Marchbanks park to win the city championship and gain undisputed second place in AA Summer League competition.

Bruno Della Libbra, liquor hurler, pitched his second successive shut-out for the liquor nine as he allowed but three hits. Bruno twirled no-hit ball until the eighth inning when the S. F. A. C. got their first hit.

Neil Decker provided the winning team with their margin of victory as he smashed a long three-bagger in the first inning.

In league competition, the liquors won 7 games and dropped 3 games. San Quentin, league champions and a proverbial thorn in the liquor's side, defeated Vince & Fred's twice—5-2 and 5-1.

The Regal Pale nine defeated the liquors in mid-season, 8-6, but lost to the liquors at the end as Della Libbra pitched a 2-0 shut-out.

Harry Krohn, manager of the local team, thought his team gave a fine performance throughout the season.

Club 21, 10 - Colma Firemen, 6

The action on Diamond No. 2 was fast and exciting despite a "heavy mist" which made visibility practically impossible. After scoreless innings Club 21 scored five runs on three hits to take the lead going into the fourth. The Firemen literally caught fire in the last half of the 5th to even the count at 5 to 5, scoring on 3 hits. The Colma team took the lead in the sixth frame with a lone tally on two bingles. They continued to hold the upper hand until the fatal sixth when the ceiling fell on them, with Club 21 scoring four runs on four hits, including a terrific four bagger off the bat of Vic Drago. They put the game on ice in the 7th by adding another run to their total.

P. Sorenson pitched a fine game for the Firemen and shows promise of limiting his opposition to few hits. Louie Drago although wild at times, kept the Firemen in check throughout the contest with the exception of the "wild" 4th inning when the Colma club crossed the plate 5 times with the assistance of six Annie Oakleys issued by Drago.

The individual batting stars for Club 21 were G. Massoni with 2 for 4, and Vic Drago with the same percentage. For the Firemen, pitcher Sorenson provided the power at bat, slamming out two safeties on four trips to the plate.

The only game on schedule on Thursday, August 9, was played between the Contractors and the Collins Street Boys with the Contractors coming through with the win by the score of 7 to 2.

D. Willis, catcher for the Contractors, had a perfect night at the plate, connecting with three hits for as many times at bat, including a four bagger. Gabriellini led the Collins Street Boys at the plate, collecting two hits in three appearances at bat. The Contractors scored their seven runs on 10 hits while the "Boys" scored two runs on seven hits.

"Off The Record"

By Roy Hurlbert

Grid Gossip

Barring injuries, war with Russia, or another fire and earthquake, the matter of choosing All-American football players from the Far West is cut and dried, for the upcoming fall season.

Last year, particularly, was extremely fruitful for the college boys out this way, more so than is customary. The 1950 consensus All-American team included two local standouts, Cal's one-man battleship, Les Richter, and Stanford's two-way giant, Bill McColl. Two Pacific Coast Conference men listed among the eleven best in the nation is pretty fair representation. The consensus team was derived from adding up the results of all the top selection polls throughout the country.

Ordinarily, the West is lucky to get more than one griddler on the AA roster, the Midwest, South and East usually catching the eyes of the writers more often. It takes a lot of booming and plugging by local scribes to convince the big shots on the other side of the Mississippi that some of our lads deserve football's highest honor.

A year ago, the Far West's AA candidate line was long, for a change. Richter and McColl had big buildups before the season started, and their performances were anticipated, nationwide. Once the pair proved they were as good as their clippings read, it was easy to reserve a spot on the AA squad for them. Without the pre-campaign publicity, it is doubtful that either would have been listed higher than the honorable mention or second team All-American. Just or unjust, it takes maneuvering, before and during a season, to keep a kid headed on the road to national recognition. Without saying it is accepted that both McColl and Richter were fittingly rewarded. They, no doubt, warranted the acclaim they got.

ALSO RAMS

Nevertheless, a few arguments could have been tossed around for the other Westerners who were close on the heels of the Bear and the Indian. Boys who were an eyelash away from the aforementioned pair were sensational Don Heinrich of Washington, his teammate Hugh McElhenney, U.C.L.A. linebacker Donn Moomaw, and Pappy Waldorf's great sophomore, Johnny Olszewski. Heinrich, who set an all-time national passing record with 134 completions on 221 passes, and soph Moomaw, were named to a few AA first teams. But Vito Parilli of Kentucky, who tossed 23 touchdown passes in '50, edged Heinrich by consensus, while Richter had more votes than Moomaw.

All-American teams don't sit well with too many people. Seems, year after year, the September All-Americans are always chosen when the season is over. Other fine ball players, on losing teams or caught in a flood of talent, are neglected. Yet these other above-average players stand by while the select few bask in the sunlight of the distinction granted them.

The unfairness of the present selection system is one of the game's main defects. It would be unfair to declare All-American selectees unqualified to bear the honor. It takes plenty of ability even be considered. The fault is that for every AA chosen there are three or four other gridders of equal, if not better ability.

Whether you like the platoon system or not, it has one definite advantage. The practice has made necessary the selection of two All-American teams, offense and defense. While platoons have made 60 minute players scarce, they have given prominence to the specialist, be he on offense or defense. When more fellows become eligible for All-America, on either unit, it gives due cause. A player may be terrific on defense, never on the field when his team has the ball. Dick Sprague of the University of Washington was placed on the first-team defensive All-America in 1950, although he seldom, if at all, packed the pigskin. We wonder if many football fans out his way ever heard of Mr. Sprague, who will play on offense this season for Coach Howie Odell.

So far as we're concerned, All-American lists are alright, as far as they go. But they don't go far enough. Too many boys are left out.

SUGGESTION

Those who frown on the platoons and rave about the 60 minute wonders would, we expect, go along with this writer's idea of naming an All-America squad. Very simple procedure. All you have to do is get up about three mythical teams, composed of players who go both on defense and offense, equally well.

In this day and platoon age, our idea is impractical. As things now stand, we think any of the boys chosen, from first-team, down through honorable mention, should get the same classification. Their can't be too much difference among them.

P. S. If you're looking for any darkhorse All-Coast or All-America possibilities, your search will be in vain. McColl, Richter, Heinrich McElhenney, Moomaw, Olszewski, Sprague are back again. What chance has an outsider, say a great runner like USC's Ollie Matson or Oregon State's Sam Baker, to make progress with the "name" boys back for more? Very slim, we'd say.

Maybe somebody ought to put a limit on All-Americans. Once named, regardless of class, the player should not be allowed to be named more than once. That would give the other fellows a chance, and legislate against the crystal-ball, premature All-Americans.

There's Still A Lot Of Life Left In Lizzy Says Cookie

SHOWN BEAMING from his newly renovated 1929 Model "T" Ford is Horace Siino, 169 Irvington St. Horace, 20, and his friends spent a month in putting the old Ford in A-1 condition. He purchased the car from its original owner five months ago for $25 and he found the engine in perfect shape. (Photo by Pat Corner)

A brand new 1922 model "T" roadster never appeared in better condition than the one which Horace Siino, 20, 169 Irvington street, and his friends recently renovated.

Horace is only the second owner of this 29-year-old car. He purchased it from its original owner five months ago for a paltry $25.

The "T" belonged to a ranch owner in Sebastopol who used it as a pick-up truck for the short five mile haul into Sebastopol until 1938 when he placed the car on hydraulic jacks.

Horace said the exterior of the car was in very poor condition, but the engine was in perfect condition. After towing the car to Sebastopol, he drove it home to San Francisco without mishap.

"Lefty" Intoschi, Bruno Greni, Jim Whalen, Tom Pang, and numerous other friends helped Horace to restore his model "T."

They started July 4 and within a month the Ford was in prize-winning form. Approximately $200 was spent for new headlights, tires, inner tubes, fenders, a canvas top, chrome, and enough lacquer for nine applications.

All the mechanical parts on the "T" are original or regular model "T" replacements. The only change is the chrome radiator band which didn't appear on the 1929 Ford.

"Lefty" Intoschi sprayed nine coats of lacquer on the car. Horace said the car will not be polished until paint is completely dry.

According to Horace, the engine is still in good working order because the car has been driven but 16,000 miles or an average of 550 miles per year since it was purchased.

The car only uses a quart of oil per thousand miles and one gallon of gas is sufficient to propel the car 25 or 30 miles.

Civil Defense

A City Prepared For War Also Can Stave Off Certain Disasters

(Ed Note: This article is believed to be of special interest to those who assert civilian defense is a "waste of time." It is an excellent answer to why Daly City, for one, should show a little more progress in its civilian defense program.)

Why Civil Defense?

Newspapers throughout the nation recently gave the answer — a graphic recital of "Why Civil Defense" whether or not we suffer the ravages of an atomic attack. Primarily, Civil Defense is designed to prepare the individual to join hands with his neighbor in a ring of mutual protection around his family, city, state and nation in time of war-born disaster. It is imperative that we all realize this if we hope to survive as a free people.

But, while this is the primary reason for Civil Defense, we must never forget that an effective, well organized and ready-for-action Civil Defense will enable us to survive natural disasters.

This was demonstrated last month when Kansas and Missouri suffered one of the worst floods in history.

A. P. Dispatch

In an Associated Press dispatch from Kansas City, Hugh J. Wylie wrote:

"The gigantic Missouri and Kansas flood is bringing the nation another lesson in the art of Civil Defense.

"Missing in the flood is the sudden and powerful destruction of an atomic attack.

"But there are some similarities. 'High waters have knocked out great industrial districts. Communications have been cut, transportation crippled. In one flooded section of Kansas City and oil and gasoline-fed fire raged four days.

"Auxiliary police and firemen stepped in to fill routine posts left vacant by officers and firefighters carrying on disaster work."

Detailing the destruction of bridges, water supply and public utilities, and relating that thousands were homeless, Correspondent Wylie continued:

"Yet there has been practically no panic, and while receding waters may uncover additional drownings, thus far there have been few known deaths.

B. C. ROSS, City Clerk of the City of Daly City

ATTEST: J. P. Green, Mayor of the City of Daly City

Pub. Aug. 16, 1951

"These seem to be the major reasons:

"1. An informed public.

"2. Preparedness and quick action by public officials, Civil Defense groups and fire and police departments."

Planned Aide

Continuing the account, Mr. Wylie reported the cooperation of newspapers and radio stations and organized groups to keep people in the stricken area informed and in dispatched help.

"There is some chaos, but planned traffic supervision keeps it to a minimum," he wrote.

"The panic of the past was missing."

As an example of the effectiveness of Civil Defense, his dispatch concludes:

"In a flood at Galveston, Texas, brought death to 4,500 to 6,000.

"In 1913 Indiana and Ohio cost 730 lives.

"In 1927 the Mississippi River flood took 423 lives.

"This flood has been more costly money-wise.

"But the known death toll is just 17."

Need more be said "Why Civil Defense."

Grass Fire Sweeps Hills

Tinder-dry oil weed caught fire in the San Bruno hills near Geneva avenue Wednesday morning and flames consumed a square mile of unimproved grass land before the combined efforts of the Daly City, Bayshore City, La Honda, and San Mateo County fire departments could bring the blaze under control.

The cause of the blaze was undetermined, but it started about 10 o'clock in the vicinity of Geneva avenue and spread upward into the hills until it was checked in the area formerly known as the Daly City Army Camp.

Fire Chief Elmer Kennedy directed fire-fighting operations of the various crews. Oil weed caused the intense black cloud of smoke which billowed into the sky.

Bill Lemon and a friend, who had driven to the scene of the fire, were given shovels and they helped in fire suppression.

MARCHBANKS PARK

The first outing of the recreation program at the beginning of the summer was the Thornton Beach hike and party. It appears that it was so successful that when the kids from Marchbanks were given their choice of an outing last week, they chose to go to Thornton Beach again. They were accompanied by a swell group from Lincoln Playground and although the weather was most uncooperative, a grand time was had by all.

On Tuesday 14, we had a most successful Hat Show. It consisted of hats of every color, shape and size imaginable, all created by the chapeau artists of Marchbanks Park. Some of the more exquisite creations will e on display at the annual Craft Exhibit at the High School on August 29.

On Wednesday August 15, at 6:30, a horse shoe tournament was held on Marchbanks' new courts. It was for the men's singles title with a trophy being given to the winner.
